PADDY AND PETER'S PENCE

William Johnson

Father, O Father, I'm a much puzzled man, For there's a custom in the Church (?) I don't quiet understand, Its this giving of money they call Peter's Pence To be used mainly and solely for the Vatican's expense.
If every Church (?) gives a portion throughout this great land, The Vatican surely must be kept very grand.
So I stopped in to-day to get open my eyes, For I know that you surely will put me quite wise.
Paddy, my boy, just between you and me, Peter's Pence is a graft, pure and simple, you see.
The old Pope of Rome, in his mansion so grand,
Is the richest old guy anywhere in this land
The Vatican is large and supports quite a crowd, Who are sporty as kings and undoubtedly as proud And they kneel down in prayer when the money comes in,
As they fall down in a stupor from drinking their gin.
There's a thousand or more rooms in the Vatican, you see,
And an army is maintained to protect the clergy.
The Pope has his pleasures, his passions, his mirth,
And longs for the day when he'll rule the whole earth.
His cardinals and bishops are provided for well,
And do lots of things it won't do to tell:
Such as swearing and drinking, and nights in the park, But they're mindful to keep all their deeds good and dark.
Father, since this is so true, as you say, I am telling you now, before I bid you good day, That Paddy O'Brien doesn't believe in such fakes, And never again will he contribute to snakes.
The old Pope of Rome is a faker, true blue, But he has faked once too many, for with I'm through.
He can holler for money and appeal 'till he dies, But I'll not open my pocketbook, since I've opened my eyes.
He can threaten damnation to those who don't give,
But with all his vain threatenings, I'll go on and live.
As for his cardinals, and bishops, and the rest of the jugsne, They haven't the sense to come in out of the rain.
So you can give my regards to the heathen old Pope And tell him to be cheerful and keep up his hope, For he'll find it much better to keep cool, the old beat,
For in the next world he'll be troubled with heat.

PADDY AND PRIESTLY CELIBACY

William Johnson

Father, O Father, the talk of the day Is of your mad courtship of the Widow O'Shea:
The people are wondering just how it will end And whence comes the money the Widow does spend.
You know it looks bad for a man like yourself,
Who promised that all women should be laid on the shelf.
When you took the oath that the good Church (?) requires, Your thoughts should have soared up beyond the blue skies.
Paddy, my boy, just between you and me,
We priests are but humans, as anyone can see.
The oath that we take is but a matter of form And guarantees nothing, so what is the harm?
Of course, we like pleasure, theatres and such,
And we drink our good whiskey and beer like the Dutch We do many things that the people don't know,
And we aren't the ones to be telling them so.
Father so long as your thoughts run this way It's useless to think in the Church (?) I'll stay:
So I'm serving you notice right here on the spot That I'm not trusting my wife with a whiskey-soaked sot.
My children I'll send to some grand Sunday School Where they'll be taught to believe the Lord's Golden Rule Sure, never again will you fool Pat O'Brien, For though I am poor, I'm not a bit blind.
You can rave, you can rant, you can smack your bald head, But I'm thankful I'm alive, though once I was dead.
You can fill your old carcass with rum day and night And all day long with your housekeepers fight.
You can court all the widows and women in town And have a good time while you paint the town brown But if ever I catch you a block from my house I'll kill you as quick as I'd kill a barn mouse.

Basket Ball

On Saturday night at eight o'clock at the new Barbourville, Gymnasium, just behind new Christian Church building, the crack local Basket ball team will meet the first Middletown five for the first game of the local season. Arrangements have been made by the management for the use of this Gymnasium for this season and it has been fitted up to accomodate the people of Barbourville who are interested in the physical well doing of the youth of this town. Last year the team won the championship of the mountains, although they were handicaped by an inadequate gymnasium, which could not accomodate the crowds, but the new gymnasium is fitted up with seats and is well lighted and well heated and every precaution has been taken to insure the comfort of the basket ball fans.

We hope that the citizens of Barbourville will turn out in good numbers to witness this, for judging from the material on both the teams it will be a corking good, fast soapy game of basket ball, and we guarantee a thrill every minute, besides the team needs the financial as well as the moral support of the town and if you can give them that, we are sure that they will furnish you with an extremely interesting as well satisfying article of Basketball. The boys are out for the championship again this year and let's all help them to win it. Don't forget the date, Saturday night, Nov. 21 at the Gym.

The "Star" twinkles every night with four reels of pictures.

Prof. Ports Goes to Ohio.

We regret to announce the departure of Prof. P. L. Ports, who left last Friday for his home in Ohio.

Prof. Ports has been connected with Union College for many years, first, a teach, then Vice President and then President of the institution. He is a man of broad mind and bright intellect, with more than the ordinary ambition to do things. He was one of the few men that education, talent and culture did not make him believe that he was superior to all other men on earth, he never passed a man on the street or else where he did not greet and speak to. He had an escort from his home to the railroad station of 25 or 30 automobiles, with the faculty and student body of Union College and many friends to see him off.

Prof. Ports will be missed in many ways by the citizens of this city but will be remembered by all.

Same old story in Mexico.

It will soon be time for steam heat in trenches.

Do your Christmas shopping early and your hinting earlier.

The real fight in Europe will come later, and will be for bread.

Yes, we escaped the income tax. And the income escaped us.

Those peace treaties were an awful waste of perfectly good paper.

Oh, no! Carranza's resignation has no string tied to it. It's a log chain.

country, but fortune has favored us thus far.

If germs lurk in kisses some girls must be remarkable for Judging from reports, the sheik have several holes in it.

All of us millionaires are joining in the movement to wear goods "made in America."

The modern birdman appears to be successful in all things but the color of his tail plumage.

Over in Europe they soak bushes with kerosene to light up the night battles. John D. again.

"Turkey is marching to slaughter," says England. Phew! But won't there be a royal gobble!

We always admire you when you laugh at our jokes. But please don't tell any of your own.

Christmas is advancing with giant strides, but of course we are not throwing out any hints.

The wisecracks are already electing a president for 1916.
But we have no fear of lightning.

Our right and left wings are standing up manfully under pressure, but Christmas is appallingly near.

Too bad the whales have about all been slaughtered. They might be scooped out and con-

We are quite willing to have to manage your own affairs.

If, as a Chicago doctor says, one-fourth of the cancer fatalities are due to a wrong diagnosis, it would seem to be in order for some one to diagnose the "docs."

They say it costs $25,000 to kill a man in war time. We've always contended that one live man was worth a dozen dead ones.

A Chicago banker says the country is on the eve of the greatest wave of prosperity in history. Eve, indeed! Give us the full glare of day!

A story comes across the water to the effect that Germany and Austria still have 18,000,000 men in reserve. And then there are the babies, too. Even yet it may develop into a respectable sized scrap.

United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois says the United States will be fighting Japan before the next presidential election. What will we fight them with? Will we have to depend upon popguns and pitchforks loaded with faith?
That's about all we have in the line of national defense.

ONCE AGAIN—CALEB.

Once more Caleb Powers comes down the pike in the Eleventh District with some 10,000 votes to the good. And we were assured that all the Democrats, Progressives, Independents, Socialists and sure-headed Republicans were going to unite on our old friend John Henry Wilson.
We believe John Henry carried a county or two by a tight squeeze and Caleb got the balance, which is just another case of history repeating itself. Looks like Caleb is about the sort of Representative that the Eleventh District likes.—State Journal.

Yes, he is just the kind of Representative we want, if he was not we would not elect him, and the size of his majorities bespeak for him the high esteem his constituents hold for him. He was nominated by the Republican party, and his name was placed upon the ballot under the Log Cabin, and with only about 50% of the voters out on election day his majority was about 10,000.
Mr. Wilson, who was once a Republican, and as such was elected to Congress twice, ran on an Independent ticket. He was not in the race this time against Mr.
Powers, he was not supported by the Democrats, there were such a few Progressives that they helped Mr. Wilson but little, and as to sore-headed Republicans in the Eleventh District, we beg to inform the world that there is no such thing in our camp. Mr. Powers carried every county in the District, leading the State ticket by more than 2000. Mr. Powers is coming to his own, he has been spurned by Democrats in the House of Congress, they have turned their noses up at him, but the time is coming soon when he will turn his nose up at them, and pass them up like a pay car passing a tramp.

The Republican party in the Eleventh have always stood in the front with its large majority.
As to the Democrats in the Eleventh District, they are as a rule good men, and are Democrats because they believe in its principles, they are Democrats without the hope of fee or reward except occasionally a post office or Deputy Collector's job, they would not vote for Mr. Wilson, they preferred to vote for Mr. Powers nearly all of them, as is shown by the returns, Mr.
Powers ran head of the ticket and can do so again. When will the Democrats and the Democratic press let up on Powers?

Democrats Hungry

The Democrats have begun to make their announcements for the various offices from Governor to Clerk of the Court of Appeals.
The announcement, or rather the newspaper talk, has it for Governor, Edward J. McDermott, Senator Camden General James Garnett, H. M. Bosworth and possibly some others, the next of importance is Auditor and we find Robt. L. Green, and Percy Haley and others for Secretary of State, W. P. Walton, they stop on these as far as we have noticed, well, so far it looks easy for the Republicans, any of these would be easy prey.

We have the highest regard for most of these gentlemen, we are personally acquainted with some of them, we would regret to see some of them nominated for one reason and some for another, which of course we will not mention at this time, but will hold ourselves ready to take sides when the time is right.

The fellow who wants office and is a candidate for one, and tells you that the people are pushing him out, and that he don't want the office is a—the candidate usually pushes himself out.

PIKE COUNTY VOTE FRAUD PROBE ENDS

1,100 Persons are Indicted; Many Officials
Among Accused; Trials
Begin January 1.

Excitement Runs High And Trouble Is Feared

Special to the ADVOCATE.

Pikeville, Ky., Nov. 20—The Pike County Grand Jury adjourning Saturday afternoon, breaking all records for a probe of election frauds in this State, when it reported indictments against 1,100 persons who are charged with selling their vote, perjury in connection with elections.

The grand jury was in session forty-seven days and was under the direction of Judge J. M.
Roberson. A special session of the Pike County Circuit Court has been called to convene January 1 when these cases will be tried.

The enormity of the frauds became apparent soon after the grand jury began its investigation, and an extension of time was frequently asked for. In all 705 witnesses were examined, and the wholesale indictments include more than half the public officials of the county.

The Grand Jurors of Knox County has not so far returned any indictments for vote frauds but they will in the future be more rigidly instructed by Judge Sampson if it can possibly be done. Our Judge and attorneys for the Commonwealth have determined to break up this evil, so that men who are disqualified, even they may be poor in this world's goods may present himself to the voters and let them say who shall hold the offices of the county, State and district, without being run over roughshod by the man who has the money to buy himself into office.

We do not know whether Judge Sampson and Mr. Snyder either one will be candidates for re-election or not, but we believe that they have done their full duty in the matter of forever stamping out this great evil.
They have made it possible for the poor man who has prepared himself for the great battles of life to go before the people being intimidated by the misers, who have laid away their gold for the purpose of buying himself into office. Money is not a fortification for office, or never was, but time was when those only who could command the bundle could hope to be elected in this county, now it is very different. Sentiment has changed, and the good people are ordinarily supporting the affairs who first took a stand against corruption in elections.
Let the law be enforced; let those whom the people prefer be chosen to fill the offices, and let the people rule, for this is the only way the people can ever come to their civil rights.

November 14, 1914

Editor Mountain Advocate,

Dear Sir:-

The above item regarding the movements of your erstwhile Associate Editor is from the New Orleans Time-Picayune, but lest from so brief a notice it might be deemed that teaching Spanish at Bogalusa a couple of evenings a week is all that I am doing to keep up as abroad the reputation of a typical Kentucky Mountaineer for business activity when he gets into a locality where talent is at par, I would add that I am regularly employed during the day from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. as Chief Interpreter and Translator in the offices of the Guatemalan Consulate General, but these hours being not very onerous to hardy Kentucky highlander, I began teaching a class in Spanish at a Local Night School which presently became consolidated with a class at the local Y. M. C. A. whence my fame spread later to far away Bogalusa the famous lumber metropolis, sixty miles by railroad New Orleans, where there is the largest sawmill in the world with a capacity of a million feet of lumber (chiefly yellow pine) a day, and employing about three thousand hands, men and women, black and white, and where a number of secretaries, clerks and stenographers determined to study and acquire Spanish, one of the National Languages of the American Republics, and made application to the City Fathers of the Southern Metropolis to recommend for their preceptor the best teacher of euphonious Castilian in all New Orleans and naturally I felt complimented and put strictly upon my "Old Kentucky mettle" to have received the recommendation and the appointment, which would necessitate a flying trip once a week over Lake Ponchar train, Tchoupitoulas Indian Fields, through pine forests dotted with little cities, towns and hamlets, fields and farms, creeks and rivulets and on to Bogalusa Highlands away from the meddling crowd, and dust and noise of the city. So I accepted. The next thing was to arrange with the Guatemalan Consulate General to get off one day each week from the office work. Finally he said that as Thursday is the day for the sailing of the Steamers from New Orleans port for Guatemala and Central America, and most of the business of the office on that day is connected with shipments and invoicing of goods with which the duties of Interpreter and Translator in Chief has little to do, if I could arrange to take that day off it would be alright, and incur no deduction from my regular salary. So I arranged to make it Thursday. By leaving New Orleans at 4 p. m. on a Southern Central "flyer" I reach the lumber metropolis on Bogalusa creek, a little city about the size of Lexington, Ky. and like it spread over about three miles square of territory, at about 7:00 o'clock the same evening, and at the splendidly appointed Y M C A hall at once open exercises with a class of above twenty eager and susceptible young Spanish students. Thursday I remain over Bogalusa, writing letters, hunting quail and Bogalusa Creek which I vary with an occasional visit to the great lumber mill with its many modern improvements among which is a "Burner" costing seventy-five thousand dollars and which consumes knots, bark and the like that might otherwise be wasted. Thursday evening I teach again at the Y M C A there, and on the early morning train, leaving at the break of day, Friday I return to New Orleans, reaching the Guatemalan Consular offices about 9 a. m. the usual hour for opening, where the other employees gather around me at once to get something of the aura and flavor of the atmosphere of the far away pine forests of Bogalusa Highlands, and naturally look up to me as their fellow craftsman who has the capacity to hold so many good positions at one time some of them sixty miles apart. But just tell them that that is "the way of the Kentucky Mountaineer." So that with teaching two evenings a week in the metropolis and two at Bogalusa, besides my regular office work and attending Coliseum Baptist church at the corner of Camp and the illy named Terpsichore street, on Sunday my time is pretty nearly as completely occupied as it used to be when I had the honor to be Associate Editor of the Mountain Advocate. In conclusion I wish you to change the address on my paper from the old address at 1102 Carondelet Street to my present address: 639 St. Charles Avenue, New Orleans, Louisiana (we have el favor) which means, "if you please sir," With kindest regards to all old acquaintances and inquiring friends, and hoping that I may be so fortunate as to get off for a short holiday excursion to the Kentucky Highlands about Christmas and New Year, I am, sir, Yours very truly, G. Brittain Lytle

SOWING AND REAPING

The Bible says "What-so-ever a man soweth that shall he also reap." And how few of us ever give these words a thought, yet they are as true as God himself. The poet says "Sow an act and reap a habit, sow a habit and reap a character, sow a character and reap a destiny."

Take for example the one who drinks, the first drink is but an act the second becomes a habit and the third becomes a part of their character; and what is the result of the first act? They shall reap for their destiny, perhaps the loss of their own soul, while they have weakened the next generation mentally, physically and morally.

We do not sow tobacco seed and expect to gather flowers, so we need not expect to do mean acts and receive a blessing. Sowing and reaping is something that everybody in the world should know about, it is something that is happening all the time, we little realize that what we do today will live after us. It is not the big things of life that count the most, but the little acts of kindness we do, are more in God's sight than we think for. It takes the small things of life to make the big things so if we expect to reap great rewards we must sow the right kind of seed.

What we sow we will reap. When we sow bad deeds we will reap bad things in our after life.

When we do anything to destroy our bodies it will help to destroy our souls, because when we have a healthy body we can work for God better. When we destroy destroy our body we sin against ourselves, and against God, and against the coming generation. When we try to keep ourselves well physically, mentally and morally, we can see the effects later on in our life, and in the coming generation, for what we sow we may expect to reap. We can be led off by evil companions. Over half the deformed children the world have drunken fathers or mothers.

One may say: "Why will it hurt me to take one drink, or smoke one cigarette?" and they just keep on saying that and after while we can't quit them, and that shows that we should never do one bad deed. For one hour's pleasure we will suffer for eternity. Like Lowell said: "For a cap and bells we sell our souls."
